Sixth Response WebText: Sirc's "Box Logic" and Wysocki's "The Sticky Embrace of Beauty: On Some Formal Problems in Teaching About the Visual Aspects of Texts" in Writing New Media

Due Date: Friday, October 21st
Format: webtext incorporating text, links, images, and image maps (optional)

In this webtext, I am eager for you to put these authors into conversation while drawing upon the broad set of resources available to you online. Keep in mind that webwriting is highly networked writing, so in the ways you choose to link

```html

```

you are adding expressive content to your page. Your webtext should contribute to an understanding of these chapters while adding your own reflections, analysis, and commentary.

I am particularly eager for you to pay close attention to your design in this assignment, creating a text where every element has a clear expressive purpose. If something is blue, why is it blue? If something is large, why is it large? And so on ...